Introduction

2012 has been another productive year for South East Arts as it continues to support arts and culture across the south east region of NSW. Strategic initiatives and innovative projects have set solid foundations throughout 2012 to grow the region's cultural currency. South East Arts made a significant contribution to the development of individual artists and organisations, establishing partnerships and enriching the cultural calendar of the region.

Vision

The South East of NSW is celebrated as having a dynamic, diverse and contemporary culture that gives expression to the unique qualities of our region and its people.

Mission

South East Arts aims to increase the social, cultural and economic wellbeing in the south east region of NSW Australia. We provide leadership in the development of a distinctive culture in our region by supporting dynamic creative activity through partnerships with our communities. We seek, provide and promote opportunities for artists to explore contemporary arts practices, giving expression to the vital connections between us as individuals and communities, in response to the world around us.

Chair's Report

After a transitional period in 2011 focused on constitutional reform and repositioning, in 2012 South East Arts covered an extraordinary amount of ground. Financially, we finished the year with a modest surplus and on a high, thanks to the exciting announcement by Arts NSW that each of the 14 Regional Arts Boards could expect an annual increase of $35,000 to core funding for the triennial period 2013-15. This followed a one-off $7,000 project grant in May to each of the Regional Arts Boards. Both announcements were warmly welcomed by South East Arts and arts communities across the length and breadth of regional NSW.

The year began on an aspirational note, with a two-day Board planning retreat at the Oaks Ranch outside Moruya, a perfect environment for creative thinking and deeper contemplation than is possible at our tightly scheduled Board meetings. Skillfully facilitated by Chris Sharma, we focused on developing team unity and a sense of shared purpose, with the theme of "leadership" as inspiration for our work and the organisational principles underpinning the development of the 2013-15 Business Plan.

At the AGM in April the Board appointed a new Treasurer: co-opted Board member Brad Spalding who is the owner of the Wild Brumby Schnapps Distillery at Jindabyne, bringing high-level business skills to South East Arts. One of the first decisions to be made by the new Treasurer was approval for the purchase of a new vehicle for South East Arts. Developing fundraising and marketing plans within the context of our Business Plan have been areas of particular focus for the Board in 2012. My sincere thanks go to my board colleagues Catherine Andrews and Bettina Richter for their excellent leadership and very hard work in driving these two areas that are so vital to South East Arts' future.

In welcoming four new Board members as a result of the Local Government elections in September, I would like to take this opportunity to sincerely thank all four outgoing Board members for their outstanding service to South East Arts. We pay tribute in particular to Karen Cash, our longest serving Board member, for her extraordinary commitment to the arts in the Bombala region for over 11 years.

After much discussion and soul-searching over months, in 2012 the Board took the difficult but necessary decision to centralise South East Arts' staff services in the Bega office to maximize efficiency and provide a more focused service to all 5 LGAs in our region. This meant that the Project Officer position in the High Country would be discontinued at the end of 2012 and a new part-time Communication and Development/Fundraising position would start in 2013.

In 2012 we welcomed new Financial and Administration Officer Tracy Elton, who in just a few months has transformed the South East Arts office, whipped our financial and administration systems into shape and won the hearts of everyone she encounters with her "can-do" style and efficiency. While these are exciting new developments for South East Arts, we were very sad to say farewell to Heidi Kunz, whose hard work and project development skills in the High Country on behalf of South East Arts over seven years was greatly valued.

I am delighted to say that Andrew Gray's contract as General Manager of South East Arts was extended at the end of 2012 for a further 3 years. Andrew is held in high esteem by his peers and colleagues around Australia, and is a tireless and dynamic advocate for South East Arts in our communities.

In 2012 Andrew has risen brilliantly to challenges of developing an excellent Business Plan and the many projects outlined elsewhere in this Annual Report. He deserves the thanks and congratulations of all of us on the Board for his terrific work this year.

Finally, my sincere thanks as Chair to my Board colleagues one and all, and in particular to the indefatigable Penny Bonnell, our most excellent secretary, without whose support I simply couldn't have managed the job of Chair in 2012. This Board really is such a wonderful and highly skillful group of people, each utterly committed to enriching cultural life in our communities. It's sometimes challenging, and there have been many hours behind the wheel driving to meetings and events, but we are all proud and endlessly enthusiastic about our work for South East Arts. It is a privilege to Chair this plucky and dynamic organisation.

Circus Monoxide Tour

As part of Youth Week, April 2012, South East Arts partnered with Circus Monoxide (Wollongong) to tour performances and workshops through the region. With support from the NSW TAFE ArtStart funding, 257 young people attended eight free workshops in Cooma, Jindabyne, Bombala, Pambula, Bega, Candelo, Moruya and Batemans Bay. The young participants performed at the beginning of each of the five shows in Cooma, Bega, Moruya and Batemans Bay. These shows were attended by over 600 audience members.

Past Present

Since 2011, South East Arts has been developing two short plays that explore the social and personal history of the region. In May 2012 a creative development process for one of the plays, Sunshine, was held with the playwright, Mary Rachel Brown, and two actors in Canberra. A rehearsed reading of Sunshine was performed for a public audience in Narooma in May as part of the River Of Art Festival.

A successful Regional Arts Fund application in late 2012 will support the development and presentation of the two plays, Sunshine and Crack Hardy, to premier at the 2013 River of Art Festival, as part of a strategic partnership with Merrigong Theatre, Wollongong.

Visual Arts

Visual Arts South East (VASE)

The VASE initiative continued during 2012 with 12 new artists joining the network, including three new Aboriginal artists added to the website with images of art works and biography details. A series of 12 promotional bookmarks, featuring the work of 15 artist members was produced and distributed to bookstores, libraries and visitor centres in the region for free use.

Support for exhibitions

South East Arts supported three art prizes in the region, funding People's Choice Awards for the Basil Seller's Art Prize, the Moruya ReVive exhibition and the Bega Valley Art Prize. The ReVive exhibition was a new initiative by Eurobodalla Shire Council and featured work of artists across the region working primarily with materials reclaimed from the waste stream.

Local Aboriginal Arts and Cultural Expression

Aboriginal arts and cultural action plan

South East Arts released their Aboriginal arts and cultural action plan to provide a regional approach that identifies and assesses synergies for Aboriginal arts and cultural development from 2012 to 2015. The plan was developed by Peter White, author of the NSW Government's Aboriginal Arts and Cultural Strategy designed to strengthen Aboriginal leadership, economic independence and cultural and social well being in arts and culture.

Price's Cafe Project Launch

In July an upbeat gathering of around 50 people in the Nepalese Restaurant in Moruya launched South East Arts' Aboriginal Arts and Cultural Action Plan alongside one of South East Arts' signature projects. Price's Café is a living exhibition featuring video interviews and a recreation of the original café, where the Nepalese Restaurant now stands. It celebrates Moruya's famous social hub for Indigenous people in the 1950s and 60s, based on an original idea by South Coast Indigenous artist Cheryl Davison, to be presented as part of the 2013 River of Art Festival.

At the launch, locals including (then) Mayor Fergus Thomson and Aboriginal Elder Iris White reflected on their personal memories of Price's Café, and the uniqueness of this project as one which celebrates the shared experiences of black and white history in the region. South East Arts has been successful in achieving $30K funding from the Office of the Arts in the Indigenous Cultural support program to support the Price's Café project.

Regional Partnership Funding

Further extending our engagement with the local Indigenous community, funding through the NSW State Government's Regional Partnership strategy was secured to enable South East Arts to employ an Aboriginal Creative & Cultural Engagement Officer to work with the Monaroo Bobberrer Gudu Aboriginal Cultural Centre, commencing in 2013.

Creative Industries/Audience Development

A sustainable creative industry and thriving arts sector demands that we build, engage with, understand and reward audiences for all South East Arts activity.

Museum Advisors Program

Two museum consultants were contracted to deliver the Museum Advisors Program with seven participating museums across the region. Supported by Museums and Galleries NSW the program will provide practical assistance and advice to developing the professional practice of museums, running through to June 2013. Additional funding was secured to run significance assessment workshops in the region in 2013.

Running Your Own Creative Business workshop

The Running Your Own Creative Business workshop was held in Merimbula 6 June with 14 people attending including visual artists, musicians, film makers, writers and photographers. This workshop was run by the Australian Film Television and Radio School and financially supported by Bega Valley Shire Council.

Performing Arts Venue Stocktake

South East Arts and Bega Valley Shire Council (BVSC) commissioned a report on performing arts venues in the south east region. The report was a stocktake of current venues and general information about their use and facilities. The report looked in detail at the BVSC with case studies of a variety of venues, possible green sites for a regional performing arts centre and recommendations to support the development of performing arts venues in the region.

Visitors to the region

Elizabeth Rogers, CEO of Regional Arts NSW visited the region in July. Elizabeth spent two days meeting with the South East Arts board, council staff, arts workers and artists in the Eurobodalla and Bega Valley Shires and attended the opening of the Art in the Garage studios in Bega.

Mary Darwell, Executive Officer of Arts NSW, arrived for a short one-day visit in September to meet with representatives from Fling, Bega Regional Gallery and Four Winds Festival. This was Mary's first visit to the region, presenting a great opportunity for South East Arts to showcase some of the key artists and organisations in the region.

South East Arts hosted the November visit of Anne Dunn, facilitator of Regional Arts NSW's Access All Areas workshop, well attended in our region by 18 participants. The workshop brought arts organisations together with disability service organisations to deliver high quality professional arts projects for people with a disability, and was supported with new funding by Arts NSW.

Regional Arts Australia National Conference Goolwa, October

A highlight of the national calendar was the Regional Arts Australia Conference in October, held in Goolwa at the mouth of the Murray River in South Australia. Simultaneous influences of the local and the global, the old and the new were present in the conference's showcase of traditional and contemporary local Ngarrindjeri art alongside some excellent use of digital technologies such as mobile and tablet apps and all sorts of screen-based presentations.

Sessions attended by Chair Lindy Hume, General Manager Andrew Gray and Project Officer Heidi Kunz covered a range of topics including crowd funding, cultural leadership, creative partnerships for mental health, working with youth and engaging with Indigenous culture. South East Arts was well represented by Andrew Gray who chaired the meeting of National RADO representatives prior to the conference, attended by 50 people and included presentations from Regional Arts Australia, Australia Council, Australian Business Arts Foundation and Feral Arts.
